There is no better way to help those in need than to grow your organization and share with the community on how it can be involved. With the current state of the economy, this is more important than ever. Now there's a way to do both.

All Valley non-profits are invited to come together and participate in a special Non-Profit Community Expo on May 28. "Choose to Help - Golden Rule In Action" is being organized to give you the forum you need to garner support for your organization's vital mission. In short, we're bringing the community to you.

Whether your organization shelters the homeless, feeds the hungry, trains those in need of jobs, or protects our youngest community residents—all groups in need of funding and resources can tell their story and touch the community at this one day "Choose to Help - Golden Rule in Action" event.

The Expo is being actively promoted by collaborative partners: Arizona Broadcasters Association, Society of St. Vincent de Paul, AZ Governor's Commission on Service and Volunteerism, the Arizona Community Action Association, the Arizona Department of Economic Security and the City of Phoenix.

Governor Jan Brewer will speak urging the community to support non-profits during these challenging times.

This is a must-do event for everyone who cares about those in need. Don't be left out.
